The Better Care Reconciliation Act would take away health care from many older North Carolinians.

The Better Care Reconciliation Act of 2017 (BCRA) would make it harder for older adults in North Carolina to afford the health care they need. Under the BCRA:

Older North Carolinians may lose access to nursing home care, home health care, and other services that help them maintain their independence.

- Proposed cuts to Medicaid would slash federal funding by $772 billion, forcing states to cut important services for older adults, such as long-term services and supports.
- Medicaid is the primary payer for 64% of nursing facilities in North Carolina.
- Approximately 148,091 North Carolinians received long-term services and supports through Medicaid.
- About 9.7% of North Carolina’s Medicaid beneficiaries are older adults; approximately 229,000 people ages 50-64 and 193,000 seniors in North Carolina benefit from Medicaid.
- The proposed Medicaid cuts will deepen severely in 2025, just as “baby boomers” start turning 80. Cuts of 35% by 2036 will make it impossible for North Carolina to meet the needs of its growing aging population. By 2025, the number of North Carolinians over age 65 is expected to grow by 38.1%, and the number over 85, a population that relies on long-term services and supports, is expected to grow 23.2%.

Older adults may not be able to afford to pay their health insurance premiums.

- As of 2016, 166,000 North Carolinians ages 50-64 received tax credits to purchase coverage through the Marketplace. Nationwide, one in four people (26%) enrolled in Marketplace plans are ages 55-64.
- For a 60-year-old living in Charlotte, North Carolina with an income of $30,000/year, net insurance premiums for a Silver plan after tax credits could rise by 186% in 2020. Net premiums for a bronze plan could change from $0 to $3,110.
- By changing the 3:1 limit on age rating to 5:1 (or higher if state law permits), premiums for older adults would increase relative to younger adults. This “age tax” by itself would raise premiums in North Carolina by $3,175 annually for a 60-year-old.

There would be fewer resources to fund Medicare.

- BCRA includes a huge tax cut, totaling $58 billion, for wealthy individuals that will harm Medicare’s financing in the short- and long-term, putting people with Medicare at risk for benefit cuts.
- BCRA opens the door to premium support which would likely put the 20% of North Carolinians ages 50-64 at risk for paying higher out-of-pocket costs once they enroll in Medicare.
- Older North Carolinians can’t afford to pay more for health care. The median personal income among North Carolinians ages 65 and older in 2015 was $20,000.
