The Better Care Reconciliation Act would take health care away from many older Coloradans.

The Better Care Reconciliation Act (BCRA) would make it harder for older adults in Colorado to afford the health care they need. Under the BCRA:

Older Coloradans may lose access to nursing home care, home health care, and other services that help them maintain their independence.

- Proposed cuts to Medicaid would slash federal funding by $772 billion, forcing states to cut important services for older adults, such as long term services and supports.
- Medicaid is the primary payer for 61% of nursing facilities in Colorado.
- Approximately 57,336 Coloradans received long-term services and supports through Medicaid.
- About 7% of Colorado’s Medicaid beneficiaries are older adults; approximately 132,000 people ages 50-64 and 65,000 seniors in Colorado benefit from Medicaid.
- The proposed Medicaid cuts will deepen severely in 2025, just as “baby boomers” start turning 80. Cuts of 35% by 2036 will make it impossible for Colorado to meet the needs of its growing aging population. By 2025, the number of Coloradans over age 65 is expected to grow by 38.6%. The number of Coloradans over 85, a population that relies on long term services and supports, is expected to grow 25.3%.

Older adults may not be able to afford to pay their health insurance premiums.

- As of 2016, 28,000 Coloradans ages 50-64 received tax credits to purchase coverage through the Marketplace. Nationwise, one in four people (26%) enrolled in Marketplace plans are ages 55-64.
- For a 60 year old living in Denver, Colorado with an income of $30,000/year, net insurance premiums for a Silver plan after tax credits could rise by 122% in 2020. Net premiums for a bronze plan could increase by over 344%. By changing the 3:1 limit on age rating to 5:1 (or higher if state law permits), premiums for older adults would increase relative to younger adults. This “age tax” by itself would raise premiums in Colorado by $1,827 annually for a 60-year old.
- The proposed bill also rolls back expanded Medicaid coverage, which currently provides affordable health care to 425,500 Coloradans, including many 50- to 64-year-olds.

There would be fewer resources to fund Medicare.

- BCRA includes a huge tax cut, totaling $58 billion, for wealthy individuals that will harm Medicare’s financing in the short- and long-term, putting people with Medicare at risk for benefit cuts.
- BCRA opens the door to premium support which would likely put the 19% of Coloradans ages 50-64 at risk for paying higher out-of-pocket costs once they enroll in Medicare.
- Older Coloradans can’t afford to pay more for health care. The median personal income among Coloradans ages 65 and older in 2015 was $24,750.
